Testing Principles

Test Principle number 3 of 7:

Early Testing Save Time and Money.

Early testing enhances the quality of work products / software.

Early testing prevents defects escape to advanced stages of SDLC.

This will save a lot time and money rather than fixing defects on complete systems.

Early testing should be performed as early as possible.

Early testing applies to both static and dynamic testing.