Test Activities, Testware and Test Roles

Test activities are different tasks performed during the test process.

They help achieve test goals.

These activities are not static, they change and adapt according to test context.

They are performed in parallel to each other or in iterative way.

Test activities are:

Test planning, Test monitoring and control, Test analysis, Test design, Test implementation, Test execution, and Test completion.